EDUCATION

Ph.D., English Literature, Arizona State University, 2012.

Dissertation: Early Medieval English Saints' Lives and the Law.

Taking a culture-specific approach to early hagiography, I use English legal material as a lens to examine prose and poetic saints' lives in Old and Middle English, arguing that the local, secular legal material that appears in hagiography functions to ground the lives of the saints in culturally and historically important moments.

Dissertation Director: Robert E. Bjork, Ph.D.

B.A., English Literature, minor Medieval Studies, University of Oregon, 2004.

Thesis for Departmental Honors: Mary's Breast and the Birth of the Word: An Explanation for Adrian and Ritheus 41.

Thesis Advisor: James W. Earl, Ph.D.
